Reprinted from Cornell University Library ms. B-56 which is composed of two poems. E. R. Hunt's hypothesis is that the first poem, the Roman de vrai amour, is by an author of the mid-fourteenth century, and that the second, which might properly be called Le pleur de sainte âme, is the work of Petermann Cudbert, the original owner of the ms.

A concise natural history of East and West Florida; containing an account of the natural produce of all the southern part of British America, in the three kingdoms of nature, particularly the animal and vegetable ... Illustrated with twelve copper plates, and 2 whole sheet maps. Vol. 1. New York, Printed for the author, 1775. New Orleans, Reprinted by Pelican Pub. Co. 1961.
301 p. illus. charts, facsim. 28 cm.
"Reprint ... made from a copy of the microfilm of this book owned by the Henry R. Huntington Library and Art Gallery."
One of the 12 plates mentioned in the title was reserved for publication with a second volume, which was apparently never published. In this case the illustrations, with the exception of the front, which is reproduced in half-tone, are made in line. The "two whole sheet maps" were published separately, with date 1774, and are not reproduced here.
